“Step Aside San Francisco: the Best Cities in the world for tech”

Sam Shead

Technology Reporter, Business Insider

Santiago
#1 in Latin America

A nighttime panoramic view of Santiago, Chile, showing the city's lights and the Aconcagua mountains in the background. The city is illuminated with warm yellow and orange lights, while the mountains are silhouetted against a deep blue twilight sky. The text "Chile is the hub for tech in Latin America" is overlaid in white at the bottom of the image.

Chile is the hub for tech
in Latin America

A photograph of a radio telescope array in a desert. The foreground is dominated by a large, white, parabolic satellite dish on a metal support structure. Behind it, a line of smaller, similar dishes extends into the distance. The ground is dry and sandy, and the sky is a clear, deep blue. The text is overlaid on the right side of the image.

Chile missed the industrial revolution

We won't miss digital

how?
